

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Let's review!

Learning Outcome

Identify and describe jobs and careers in both work and social contexts appropriate for the interlocutor.

Ask your partner:

- How prepared are you to begin a job search?
- What do you need to do to improve your job search strategy?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about events and experiences related to a job.
- I can talk about issues related to a job search.
- I can explain how to present a résumé, a cover letter, and oral presentation.

Let's Explore!

Kristi puts it in a nutshell!

* To "put something in a nutshell" means to summarize it.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Adam: Excuse me, are you looking for this?

Kristi: My phone! Where did you find it?

Adam: It was on the chair where you were sitting. What did you think of the workshop, by the way? It was really beneficial, wasn't it?

Kristi: Yeah. It's designed to give you an overview of job search skills. I've learned a lot about doing a résumé, a cover letter and oral presentation.

Adam: Like what?

Kristi: Well, I learned the essentials of a résumé, like a concise summary of skills, strengths and accomplishments. You really need to show how you can fit into your target industry. This is made clear in the workshop.

Adam: That's useful information, isn't it?

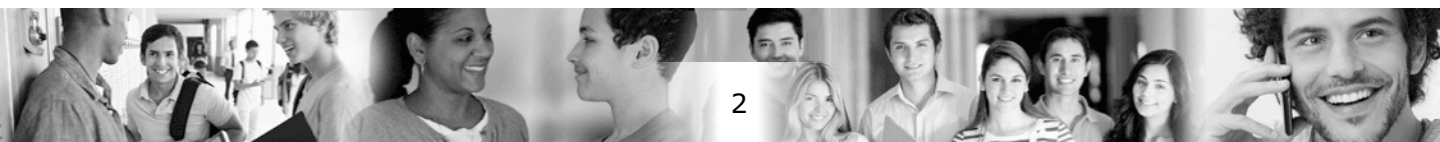

Kristi: Yeah. A good first impression is created by a great cover letter. It will help you stand out. Your skills and what you can bring to a company should be summarized in the cover letter. The cover letter should have four paragraphs that will cover how you got the job lead, your skills, what you can bring to the company, and how you will follow up.

Adam: And what about presentations? Giving presentations is a necessary skill, isn't it? Employers are impressed by great presentation skills.

Kristi: Yes. But it's never easy to be confident when you're in front of a group, is it? I discovered that the purpose of your presentation should be made clear right from the start. Also, you should keep your presentation short. And an interesting fact that I learned about presentations is that they need to have a lot of questions so that the listeners are part of the conversation. You should engage your listeners, shouldn't you?

Adam: All these skills are needed for a successful job search. I'm Adam, by the way.

Kristi: I'm Kristi. Great to meet you!

Let's Practice!

Kirsti reviews what she learned at the job fair.

Instructions: Read the dialogue again. Read the clues. Write True, False or Not given.

- 1) Kirsti thinks that a good first impression is not created by a great cover letter. _____
- 2) Kirsti learned the essentials of a resume. _____
- 3) Adam led the workshop about job skills. _____
- 4) Adam has a lot information about this topic. _____
- 5) Kirsti learned that a solid presentation needs to engage your listeners. _____

Let's Practice!

Kristi and Adam confirm the importance of résumés and cover letters.

Instructions: Read the sentences. Write the missing phrases. Use phrases from the word bank.

- 1) It was really beneficial, _____ ?
- 2) That's useful information, _____ ?
- 3) Giving presentations is a necessary skill, _____ ?
- 4) It's never easy to be confident when you're in front of a group, _____ ?
- 5) You should engage your listeners, _____ ?

Word Bank

- is it
- isn't it
- wasn't it
- shouldn't you
- isn't it

Extension Activity

Think about fonts.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- On the Internet look at different font types.
- Choose 5 fonts that you think are appropriate for a résumé and cover letter and 5 that are not appropriate.
- Write a short paragraph about why you chose the fonts that you did.
- Present your choices and your opinions to your group.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I research fonts.

☐ ☐

I choose appropriate and inappropriate fonts.

☐ ☐

I compare and describe appropriate and inappropriate fonts.

☐ ☐

I present my choices and opinions to a group.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- beneficial (adjective): producing benefits
e.g. It was really beneficial, wasn't it?
- accomplishment (noun): something done admirably or creditably
Example: I learned the essentials of a résumé, like a concise summary of skills, strengths and accomplishments.
- to stand out (verb): to be noticeable and different from the rest e.g. It will help you stand out.
- first impression (expression): a feeling we get upon a first experience with someone or something e.g. A good first impression is created by a great cover letter.
- job lead (noun): a piece of information about a possible job opportunity e.g. The cover letter should have four paragraphs that cover how you got the job lead.
- strength (noun): a good characteristic e.g. Your cover letter and résumé should outline your strengths.
- to follow up (verb): to find out more information about a matter that has previously been discussed or done
e.g. Your cover letter should state when you plan to follow up.

Learning Points

The Simple Present Passive

You use an active structure when you want the 'doer' of the action to be the subject.
You use a passive structure when you want the 'receiver' of the action to be the subject.

In active sentences, the subject of the sentence does the action and the object receives it.
Active sentences are more often used than passive sentences.

[Thing doing action] + [verb] + [thing receiving action]

For example:

Active sentence = Employers (subject) advertise most jobs (object) online.

In passive sentences, the object is put in the position of the subject of the sentence. The subject, or doer of the action is sometimes put in the object position.

You use passive form when the receiver of the action needs emphasis.
You can also use passive if the doer of the action is not known.

[Thing receiving action] + [be] + [past participle of verb] + [by] + [thing doing action]

For example:

Passive sentence = (by employers) It is not necessary to mention the object in a passive sentence.

You make the Present Passive form of a verb by using tenses of the be verb followed by the past participle.

The Simple Present passive form is:

Subject + am/are/is + past participle

Examples:

- It's designed to give you an overview of job search skills.
- This is made clear in the workshop.
- A good first impression is created by a great cover letter.
- Employers are impressed by great presentation skills.
- All these skills are needed for a successful job search.

Learning Points

Tag Questions

You use tag questions to ask for clarification and confirmation.

Tag questions come at the end of statements.

You use them in speech to:

- confirm whether or not something is true
- to get a response from the person we are speaking to

A negative tag question comes after a positive sentence. Use this when you think the other person will agree by saying 'yes'.

A positive tag question comes after a negative sentence. Use this when you think the other person will agree by saying 'no'.

If the main verb is to be or a modal verb, the tag will be the same.

For all other main verbs, use the tag do/does or did/didn't. Look at the examples in the chart.

Negative adverbs

You use negative adverbs never, seldom, rarely, barely, hardly, and scarcely in a positive statement. However, they make the statement negative. So, you use the a positive tag question at the end of a statement with a negative adverb.

Statement	Main Verb	Tag
positive statement	It is/was	isn't/wasn't he?
negative statement	It isn't/wasn't	is/was it?
modal verb	It can/could	can't/couldn't it?
negative modal	It can't/couldn't	can/could it?
negative adverb	It never does/did	does/did it?

Examples:

- It was really beneficial, wasn't it?
- It's never easy to be confident when you're in front of a group, is it?
- You should engage your listeners, shouldn't you?

